

I am a private pilot in the midwest area that enjoys flying when possible. I fear that making the ADIZ area around the DC area permanent will also cause more ADIZ areas around the country in the near future. My aircraft isn't equipped to fly within ADIZ or Class B areas. If these areas are expanded, it will limit the amount of flying for a lot of the General Aviation public. Does anyone actually read all of these comments?